Jimi Moore was born in New Jersey and spent wonderful times in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. Working for many years in Chicago, Wisconsin, and Atlanta, Jimi found and wed a fine Southern gentleman, John. They have three brilliant children.

Over the decades, Jimi and John moved from southern town to southern town, finally landing in Charlotte. One day while taking a trip westerly from Charlotte, Jimi saw the perfect home. Out the back door are views of Mt. Mitchell, Chimney Rock and other long range mountain views. Shortly thereafter, she and John moved to Green Hill in Rutherford County.

Today, the golds and reds of the sunsets during the changing seasons, and the blues, purples, browns and greens of the mountains inspire Jimi through a variety of artistic disciplines: stained and fused glass, knitting, crocheting and other fiber arts.

So, if you are lucky enough to find a work by Jimi, you're lucky enough!
